ADVERTISE IN THE WHITE CANE

Christmas

In the peaceful Silent Night

Up above the world so high,

An angel on a moonbeam sat and gathered from the sky,

Bright little stars as they passed on by.

Fondly caressing them as they sped on their way,

Twinkling and blinking o'er the Milky Way.

Softly, thru the Silent Night, they then descend

To the steeple-top and the hills, below, Tinting the trees with a purple glow,

As the shadows come and go-

Casting their spell over all and their beauty, lend

To the white and glistening snow.

And—over the hills and far away,

May joy and peace abide this Christmas Day!

JACK EIGEN

AMERICA'S MOST IMITATED INTERVIEWER

Jack Eigen, radio's original late-night interviewer, is still going strong seven nights a week, after 20 years of nightly conversation broadcasting.

His current schedule has him doing his two and one-half hour radio show six nights a week on station WMAQ.

Eigen has spent 15 of those 20 years in Chicago with the NBC radio and TV outlets.

Late-night interview programs, now common to radio and TV, were an untried commodity when Eigen launched a nightly broadcast of celebrity interviews from New York's Copacabana Lounge in April of 1947.

An ardent admirer of Eigen was the late Fred Allen and Jack credits Allen's frequent mention of the Eigen show with contributing a great deal to its success.

Eigen joined WMAQ as host of the station's late-night Chez Show in September of 1951. He has been a member of the WMAQ-WNBQ family, with the exception of a year spent in St. Louis in 1960, ever since.

He returned from St. Louis and resumed the Jack Eigen radio show, from the WMAQ studios, in February of 1961. He returned to television with the Sunday night Jack Eigen Show colorcast on WNBQ in March of 1962. Show continued until May, 1966.

Eigen was born and raised in Brooklyn, N. Y. At the age of 12 he was contributing to the family income by working as a pinboy in a neighborhood bowling alley. At 19 he began writing a column of celebrity interviews for a Queens, N. Y., newspaper.

While a fledgling columnist Eigen was interviewed on a New York radio station and decided then and there that this was the medium for him. He conducted a program of Hollywood and Broadway chatter on a New York City radio station in 1937, a decade before he was to pioneer the late night interview show.

Eigen made his television debut with a program of interviews in New York shortly after he launched the Copa radio show in 1947. TV was still in its infancy at the time. Some of the biggest names in TV today received their first video exposure on the Eigen telecast.

Eigen is married to the former Dorothy Jeffers, an Olympic swimming champion. Jack's financial affairs are in good hands with Mrs. Eigen, who is a registered stock broker. The Eigen's have a 14-year-old daughter, Jacqueline. Jack celebrates his birthday on May 23.

Unbelievable—But True

August 23, 1966

Olympic Whirlpool Bath Co. 1572 N. Clybourn Ave. Chicago, Ill. 60622 Dear Sir:

I have been wanting to write you for over a year, but I have been injured and in and out of the hospital. So I have put it off. However, the Olympic Whirlpool Bath does and has helped me more than anything. But this isn't the reason I am writing. It is about my Pomeranian dog. She had a stroke Feb. 6, 1966. So we rushed her to the hospital where they kept her until the following Monday. They called and said nothing could help her, and it would be best to put her to sleep, which I wouldn't agree to. So my husband went over and got her, then he took her to another Vet., who told him the same thing. Well I was heart broken, as she was my husband's constant companion when he had a heart attack. He had taught her to play ball and she was such a good dog. Then when I was injured, she was by my side night and day when I was home. Well I cried for at least 3 days and prayed for something to help her, as she would lie and seemed to be begging for help. All at once the thought came to me, my Olympic Whirlpool Bath. If it helps me why couldn't it help her, so why not try it. When my husband came home, I told him to put her in the Whirlpool, as she was too heavy for me to lift her. He would take her out of the Whirlpool after 20 minutes, then she would lay on the rug on the floor under my hair dryer to get dry. Then she would get another 20 minute bath later in the day. Well, within a couple of weeks she could move slightly, which made us feel better, so for 2 months she had 2 Whirlpool baths a day. By that time she could hobble around a little on a rug or where she wouldn't fall or slip. In another month she could walk outside, although with a bad limp. Then we cut the baths down to one a day and she was finally ready to play ball again. She still gets a couple baths a week, but she runs, plays and does everything she did before.

I know God answered my prayers when the Whirlpool idea hit me. Thank God and Mr. Franklin, as Mr. Franklin sold me the Olympic Whirlpool Bath, that my Ginger is still with me.

I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for my Whirlpool and be without one.

So I thought you might like to know that it also helps animals as well as humans. My Vet. could hardly believe his eyes when he saw her.

Truly

Health and Safety Tips

From the American Medical Ass'n

(Reprinted by permission of the American Medical Association)

More than half a million Americans suffer eye accidents every year.

Most of these accidents, which sometimes result in blindness or impaired sight, are needless and preventable.

Eye accidents are a particular threat to youngsters. Careful, emphatic training in the dangers of pointed sticks, BB-guns, bows and arrows and fireworks are a must in every family. Parents can help by using common sense in selecting toys that are safe for the age of the child.

With the more widespread utilization of regular physical examinations, more small children are being found early with defective vision than ever before. Thus, more small children are now wearing glasses. In childhood play glasses are easily broken. If a youngster in your family wears glasses, inquire about the protective safety lenses that now are available.

Visual care of children should begin in the pre-school years, when many eye defects still can be corrected. If the eye defect is something that cannot be corrected except by glasses, it is important to have the child fitted with glasses early to avoid possible problems in school and at play.

Equally important for parents of children who wear glasses is to remember that the child's vision changes and that regular eye examinations are important to make certain that the glasses provide the proper correction.

Some of the warning signs of eye trouble in children are excessive blinking, frequent rubbing of the eyes, squinting, excessive frowning, stumbling over small objects, undue sensitivity to light, red or swollen lids, sties and inflamed or watery eyes.

If your child shows any of these symptoms, see your physician. They may not be serious. They may be symptoms of a potentially dangerous condition that could be corrected if care is begun early.

Christmas Starts at Blind Made Products

Here our blind people are starting to make Christmas stockings, Christmas print table cloths, aprons, Christmas Santa Claus mugs filled with candy, empty flannel stockings for people that like to fill their own, bows for gift wrapping, and numerous other items.

Many people who do not have children to give our Christmas stockings to, send them to institutions in their name.

If they desire to do this, here is all they have to do: Each large stocking sells for $2.50 and it is filled with candy and toys that children love (we have been filling these for ten years). Enclose check or money order in the amount that they wish to send and mail to us. We will take care of the rest.

Our blind people depend on the purchases made by the general public to create work in our workcenter.

"You can't sprinkle the perfume of happiness on others without a few drops falling on yourself."

For further information as to the above, kindly contact our office. Ask for sales department, 478-8985-6-7. Our office is open from 9-5:30.
